(Article 66)

Code of Practice for Interrogation of Arrested Persons

General Rules

This Code of Practice is to be accessible for consultation in all Police Stations, and in all places where interviews are normally carried out so that all members of the Police Force, arrested persons, or members of the public may read it. Where according to this Code, any person is to be given any information, this information need not be given when such person is not capable of understanding it, or is violent in behaviour, or is in need of urgent medical care; however, such information shall be given as soon as practicable.

1. Purpose of Questioning

First of all, remember that the aim of the questioning is to examine whether the reasonable suspicion in the person being interrogated is valid or not, and if valid, to collect facts and evidence in favour and against the person interviewed for the purpose of arraigning such person before a Court of Law, if sufficient evidence exists.

2. Importance of Statements

Since the statement of the person subject to questioning is of paramount importance as evidence, it is important that nothing is done during the interview which may, even in the slightest way, throw doubt on the validity of the statement; and because of the statement's importance as proof, our Courts are strict and meticulous in the criteria they have adopted to ensure that a statement is made in conformity with article 658 of the Criminal Code, that is to say the statement is made "voluntarily and not extorted or obtained by means of threats or intimidation, or of any promise or suggestion of favour".

3. Place where questioning may occur

As a rule, the interrogation should be conducted at the Police General Headquarters or at a Police Station or other areas under Police control, except when there are serious reasons indicating that this would seriously prejudice the investigations.

4. Caution

The person subject to the questioning has the right to refuse to answer any question put to him.

For these reasons, prior to any questioning of a person suspected of having committed an offence, a warning or caution, in the following form, shall be given:

"You do not have to say anything unless you wish to do so, but what you say may be given in evidence".

Where the rule of inference is applicable in accordance with the provisions of the Criminal Code the caution shall be as follows:

"You do not have to say anything unless you wish to do so, but what you say may be given in evidence; however, should you refuse to say anything or omit to state some fact, a rule of inference amounting to corroborative evidence may be drawn by the Court or any other adjudicator if during the trial you will put forward any defence based on a fact which you did not state during interrogation".

PROCEDURES FOR QUESTIONING

5. Identification of Police Officers

The person conducting the interrogation and all other persons present shall identify themselves to the person being interrogated.

6. Recording of Caution

The fact that caution in Rule 4 is given shall be registered in the statement itself, and the person subject to questioning must be given the opportunity to sign at the end of the paragraph where such registration is made.

7. Details of Recording

When, after the caution is given, the person being interviewed decides to make a statement, a record should be kept of the following: the place where the statement is taken, the time the interrogation started and ended, every period of interruption, and the names of the persons present during the questioning.

The investigating officer shall always inform the suspect prior to any recorded statement of the offence which is being investigated.

8. Procedure for drafting of statement

As far as possible, the statement should contain the exact words used by the suspected person, without using "official" vocabulary. Where circumstances so indicate the suspected person should be allowed to write his own statement, and this fact shall be registered in the statement itself. The suspected person shall be invited to sign the statement. However, the "caution" shall always be registered at the beginning of the document even when the person being interviewed intends to write his own statement.

Do not forget that even if the statement is not signed, this may still be produced as evidence; however, the reason adduced by the person being questioned for not signing the statement shall be registered.

No blank spaces are to be left in the statement except for the side margins.

9. Statement to be read by criminal suspect

When the writing of a statement by a police officer is finished, the person making it shall be asked to read a copy of it and to make any further statement in which he may make any corrections, alterations or additions he wishes. If the interviewed person cannot or refuses to read the statement, the statement shall be read to the suspected person. Following this, the suspected person shall be asked to sign it at the end and initial every page as well as any further statement which he decides to make.

10. Signing of Statement by Police

The interrogating officer shall sign the statement at the end, preferably below the signature, if any, of the person being questioned; the officer, and any other person assisting him shall sign a declaration to the effect that the statement has been read out to the person concerned who was also allowed to read a copy of it.

11. Registration in Records of Arrested Persons

Any interval during an interview shall be recorded. The records must also indicate the time/s when the person being questioned is given any food or drink. Any request made by the arrested person during questioning shall be registered in writing and such request shall form part of the custody records of the detainee.

12. Rule against Questioning during night

A person should only be questioned during the night when this is indispensable for the investigation or avoids prolonging the period of arrest. Sufficient time shall elapse between one interview and another to allow such person to rest. Questioning shall not proceed when the person detained is so fatigued that his powers of volition and comprehension are impaired.

13. Periods of Rest

In any period of 24 hours, the arrested person shall be allowed a continuous rest period of at least 8 hours, uninterrupted by any questioning, travel or interruption caused by the investigation. As a rule, this period shall be during the night. This period of rest shall not be interrupted or postponed unless there are valid reasons indicating that if there is no such interruption or postponement:

- (a) there would be a serious risk of injury to persons, or damage to or substantial loss of property;
- (b) the period of arrest would be unnecessarily prolonged;
- (c) the investigation would be seriously prejudiced.

No alcoholic drinks shall be given to the arrested persons, unless ordered by a doctor.

Breaks from interviewing shall be made at recognised meal times, short breaks for refreshment shall also be provided at intervals of approximately two hours, subject to the interviewing officer's discretion to delay a break if there are reasonable grounds for believing that it would:

- (a) involve risk of harm to persons or serious loss of, or damage to, property;
- (b) delay unnecessarily the person's release from custody; or
- (c) otherwise prejudice the outcome of the investigation.

14. Stratagems

The use of a stratagem to lead a person to make a statement is not prohibited (e.g. "we already know everything about the case; your friends have already confessed").

15. Special attention for Juveniles

Special attention should be given when persons under 16 years of age are being interviewed. As far as possible, and if this is not prejudicial to the investigation, these persons should be interviewed in the presence of one of the parents, or their tutor, or in the presence of any other person, not being a member of the Police Force, who is of the same sex as the interviewed person, e.g. the person who has the effective care and custody of the young person, or a social worker.

Youths and children attending school or other educational institutions, should not, as far as possible, be arrested, or interviewed, at school. Where it is found essential to conduct the interview at school, this should be done in the presence of the head teacher.

16. Oppression

Any form of behaviour which may amount to inhuman or degrading treatment, or any form of physical or mental torture is not only prohibited but amounts to an offence under article 139A of the Criminal Code. The offence carries a punishment of a maximum of nine (9) years imprisonment.

Consequently all steps should be taken not only so that such behaviour does not occur, but also that no action be committed which may even give rise to allegations of ill-treatment.

Therefore,

- (a) the person being interrogated shall always and at all times be seated, if he so wishes, during the questioning;
- (b) foul language, threats, deprecatory laughter and menacing gestures are forbidden;
- (c) under no circumstances shall any person present during the questioning hold or exhibit any firearm or other weapon, even if jokingly; however, the detained person may be shown such firearms or weapons connected with the investigation, where this is necessary;
- (d) no person being questioned shall be bound by any rope, chain or other shackle, but may be handcuffed if this is reasonably justified for his own safety or that of others or to prevent his escape.

The investigating officer must keep in mind the particular circumstances of individual detainees and must take special care with particularly timid or frail persons that nothing is done that puts the voluntariness of the statement into doubt.

17. Interrogation of Handicapped Persons and other Persons

- (a) If it appears to a Police Officer that a person whom he intends to interview has a mental handicap which raises a doubt as to whether the person can understand the questions put to him, or which makes the person likely to be especially open to suggestion, the officer should take particular care in putting questions and accepting the reliability of answers. As far as practicable, a mentally handicapped person should be interviewed only in the presence of a parent, or his tutor or other person, not being a member of the Police Force, who is of the same sex as the person being interviewed, e.g. the person who has the effective care and custody of the handicapped person or a social worker;

- (b) any document reporting an interview with a mentally handicapped person (after the investigating officer shall have ascertained that the interviewed person was capable of making the statement) should be offered for signature not only to the handicapped person but also to the mother or father or other accompanying person present during the interview; care should be taken to verify the facts stated and to obtain corroboration where possible;
- (c) in the case of potentially vulnerable persons, (e.g. persons under the influence of drugs, alcohol, medicine, or who are in a state of shock) precautions should be taken to ensure that the statement is made by them when they are able to appreciate the significance of the questions and their answers, and that the statement is not the result of undue influence by the interviewing officer.

The Commissioner shall draw up rules concerning interrogation, where there is reason for believing that the person is sick or deaf. The investigating officers shall not proceed to an interview without the prior intervention and certification of a medical practitioner, as to the suitability of conducting the interrogation.

18. Statements in languages other than Maltese or English

No person shall be questioned in the absence of an interpreter if such person -

- (a) does not understand the Maltese or English language; or
- (b) the person conducting the interview does not understand a language spoken by the interviewed person.

In the case of a person making a statement in a language other than Maltese or English:

- (a) the interpreter or the officer taking the statement should take down the statement in the language in which it is made;
- (b) a Maltese translation should be made in due course and be annexed as an exhibit with the original statement;
- (c) only the original statement need be offered to the person making the statement.

19. Effect of this Code

The lack of observance of any the provisions of this Code will not invalidate the statement taken, unless such non observance nullifies the voluntariness of the statement. However, disciplinary proceedings may be instituted against persons who do not observe the provisions of this Code.

20. Rules of Guidance

Finally it should be remembered that these guidance rules are being circulated not only to prevent the commission of anything prohibited by the Constitution or the law of Malta, but also to avoid any allegations by arrested persons of any improper treatment during their arrest. Consequently, the observance of these rules not only improves the image of the Police Force in the eyes of the public, but also ensures less problems for the Police to prove, in due course, the validity of statements made by arrested persons.

FIFTH SCHEDULE

[Article 121]

POLICE PENSIONS REGULATIONS, 1990

General Regulations

Added by:
X. 1990.3.

3. The service in respect of which a pension may be granted must be unbroken, except in cases where the service has been interrupted by abolition of office or other temporary suspension of employment, and not arising from misconduct or voluntary resignation:

Service to be unbroken.

Provided that any service prior to a break of service may be allowed to count for pension together with any service subsequent to such break:

- (a) if the whole intervening period has been spent in some other employment in the service of the Republic; or
- (b) in the case where such Police officer, having resigned from the Force, is subsequently recalled in the Force with the approval of the Prime Minister on account of the exigencies of the Force, and such recall is certified by the Prime Minister.

- (b) in the case of a Police officer who at any time during such period of three years has been transferred from one office to another, but whose pensionable emoluments have not been changed by reason of such transfer or transfers, otherwise than by the grant of any scale increments, the full annual pensionable emoluments enjoyed by him at the date of his retirement in respect of the office then held by him shall be taken;

- (c) in other cases one third of the aggregate pensionable emoluments enjoyed by the Police officer in respect of his service during the three years of his service immediately preceding the date of his retirement shall be taken:

Provided that -

- (i) if such one third is less than the highest annual pensionable emoluments enjoyed by him at the date of any transfer within such period of three years those annual pensionable emoluments shall be taken; and
- (ii) if such one third is less than the annual pensionable emoluments which would have been enjoyed by him at the date of his retirement, if he had continued to hold any office from which he has been transferred at any time during such period of three years, and had received all scale increments which, in the opinion of the Prime Minister would have been granted to him, the annual pensionable emoluments which would have been so enjoyed shall be taken.

(2) For the purpose of determining under subregulation (1) the pensionable emoluments that a Police officer has enjoyed or would have enjoyed, as the case may be, he shall be deemed -

- (a) to have been on duty on full pensionable emoluments throughout the period of three years immediately preceding the date of his retirement; and
- (b) to have enjoyed the benefit of any increase due to a revision of salaries in the pensionable emoluments of any office held by him as if such increase has been payable throughout such period of three years.

(3) For the purpose of computing the amount of the pension of a Police officer who has had a period of less than three years' pensionable service before his retirement -

- (a) the average annual pensionable emoluments enjoyed by him during such period shall be taken;
- (b) he shall be deemed to have been on duty on full pensionable emoluments throughout such period;
- (c) he shall be deemed to have enjoyed the benefit of any increase due to a revision of salaries in the pensionable emoluments of any office held by him as if such increase had been payable throughout such period; and

- (d) any periods during which he has been absent from duty on leave without salary, granted on grounds of public policy with the approval of the President, and during which he has not qualified for pension in respect of other public service.

(4) In no circumstances shall the pensionable emoluments to be taken exceed the full annual pensionable emoluments enjoyed by the Police officer at the date of his retirement in respect of the office then held by him.

(5) In the case of a Police officer to whom regulation 5(1)(d) applies, the date of retirement shall:

- (a) where such officer reaches the age of retirement; or
- (b) where such officer would have but for his dismissal completed 25 years' service; or
- (c) where such officer dies;

before his dismissal has been declared null by the competent authority, be deemed to be the day on which he reaches the age of retirement, or the day on which he would have completed 25 years' service, or on which he died, whichever is the earlier, and his pensionable emoluments to be taken into consideration shall be those which he would have been receiving on such date had he not been so dismissed.

5. (1) For the purpose of computing the amount of a Police officer's pension the following periods shall be taken into account as pensionable service:

Computation of pensions.

- (a) any periods during which he has been on duty;
- (b) any period during which he received half salary;
- (c) any periods during which he has been absent from duty on leave with full or half salary;
- (d) any period following dismissal from the Force, where such dismissal is subsequently declared to have been invalid by a competent authority, up to the time of reinstatement, or the date when such Police officer would have completed 25 years' service, or the day on which such Police officer would have to retire because of age, or the date when such officer dies, whichever is the earlier.

And any periods during which he has been absent on leave other than those specified above shall be deducted from the officer's total service in order to arrive at his period of pensionable service.

(2) For the purposes of subregulation (1)(d) of this regulation and for the purposes of regulation 4(5), the term "dismissal" shall be deemed to include "compulsory retirement on the ground of public interest", and the term "dismissed" shall be construed accordingly.

Acting service.

6. Where an officer has performed acting service in a pensionable office in the Force, the period of such service may be taken into account as pensionable service under the Act:

Provided that -

- (a) the period of such acting service was not part of the pensionable service of the previous holder of the office and does not fall to be reckoned as part of the officer's own pensionable service under the Act in the Force;
- (b) this period of service is immediately preceded or followed by service in a substantive capacity in the Force.

Abolition or reorganization of office.

7. If a Police officer retires or is removed from the Force in consequence of the abolition of his office, or for the purpose of facilitating improvements in the Force, by which greater efficiency and economy can be effected, he may be granted a pension:

Provided, however, that if he has been in Force for less than the qualifying period of ten years, he may be granted a pension calculated in accordance with regulation 2 as if there had been no qualifying period:

And provided also that the grant of such pension shall be subject to the condition that he shall be liable to be recalled to service in the Force:

Provided further that if such a Police officer is not qualified for other employment in the Force or if there is no reason, in the opinion of the Prime Minister, to expect that he can be shortly re-employed, a pension may be granted to him free from the above-mentioned condition.

Rates of pension when offices are abolished.

8. A Police officer whose office is abolished may be granted an increase of his pension at the rate of one-sixtieth part of his annual pensionable emoluments for each complete period of three years' pensionable service:

Provided -

- (a) the addition shall in no case exceed ten sixtieths; and
- (b) no addition shall be made so as to qualify an officer for a pension of higher annual value than that for which he would have been qualified by length of service on reaching the age at which he may be required to retire, or for a pension of higher annual value than the maximum prescribed in article 125 of the Act.

Officers retiring on account of injuries.

9. (1) Where a Police officer has been permanently injured -

- (a) in the actual discharge of his duty, and
- (b) without his own default, and
- (c) by some injury specifically attributable to the nature of his duty, and his retirement is thereby necessitated or materially accelerated, he may, if he is qualified for a pension under regulation 2, be granted, in addition to the pension granted to him under that regulation, an additional pension at the rate of the proportion of his actual pensionable emoluments at the date of his injury appropriate to his case as shown in the following table:

- When his capacity to contribute to his own support is -
- slightly impaired five-sixtieths;
- impaired ten-sixtieths;
- materially impaired fifteen-sixtieths;
- totally destroyed twenty-sixtieths:

Provided that the amount of the additional pension shall be reduced to such an extent as the Prime Minister shall think reasonable in the following cases:

- (i) where the injured Police officer has continued to serve for not less than one year after the injury in respect of which he retires;
- (ii) where the injured Police officer is at the date of injury within ten years of the age at which he may be required to retire; or
- (iii) where the injury is not the sole cause of retirement, but the retirement is caused partly by age or infirmity not due to the injury:

Provided also that the total amount of the additional pension shall not exceed the amount prescribed in article 125(2) of the Act.

(2) A Police officer so injured, whose length of service is not such as to qualify him for a pension under regulation 2, may nevertheless be granted a pension at the rate of one four-hundred and fiftieth of his pensionable emoluments for each complete month of pensionable service together with such additional pension as might be awarded to him under the preceding part of this regulation if he were qualified for pension.

Pensions to officers when service is less than 10 years.

10. (1) Where a Police officer without his own default has been killed in the actual discharge of his duty or has died from such injury specifically attributable to the nature of his duty or has been killed while in the actual discharge of his duty, a pension may be granted to his widow, while unmarried not exceeding ten-sixtieth of the husband's pensionable emoluments at the day of injury; and a pension may be granted to each child of such officer, until such child attains the age of eighteen years, not exceeding one-sixth of the rate awardable to the widow, so long as the aggregate of the children's pensions do not exceed the rate awardable to the widow.

Pension to widows of officers, killed in the discharge of duty.

(2) The foregoing provision shall apply also in case the officer, after he shall have been pensioned under regulation 9, dies from the direct and immediate effects of the injury sustained.

(3) If the officer's wife predeceases him, or if no pension is granted to her under this article, and he leaves children who would have been eligible for pension, if a pension had been granted to the widow, pensions may be granted to them of twice the amount of the pensions for which they would have been eligible in the circumstances.

(4) If the deceased does not leave a widow or motherless children, but leaves a mother who was wholly dependent on him for maintenance, the award which might have been made to the widow had there been one left, may be made to the mother, but it shall cease, if she be widow, in case of remarriage.

Good conduct required.

11. (1) Pensions, computed at the rates before mentioned, shall only be granted in case of decidedly faithful and meritorious service.

(2) Where the fidelity and diligence of the officer fall short of the first degree of merit the computation may be made at lower rates.

Cross-border payments.
