Abolishment of Political Parties and Movements

(1) A political party or movement is abolished

- a) as a result of its own decision, in particular by voluntary dissolution, merger with another political party or movement or transformation into an unincorporated association¹⁾,
- b) if it fails to present its financial report to the Chamber of Deputies within the time limit specified in this act of law (Article 18, Sections 1 and 2),
- c) as a result of judicial resolution.

(2) If no abolishment resolution method is specified in its articles pursuant to Section 1, Subsections a) and b) herein, a political party or movement shall be abolished by its supreme body.

(3) After a political party or movement has been abolished, its bodies may only act in matters related to its abolishment unless their executive powers are transferred to a legal successor or liquidator.

(4) If a political party or movement is abolished as a result of its merger with another political party or movement or transformation into an unincorporated association¹⁾, all assets and liabilities shall be transferred to its legal successor.

(5) If it is decided that a political party or movement will be abolished as a result of voluntary dissolution or as a result of its failure to present its annual financial report to the Chamber of Deputies, the body which adopts such decision must also appoint a liquidator of its assets. The Ministry must be informed of the abolishment or dissolution of a political party or movement by its liquidator within 5 days.

(6) A political party or movement may be abolished as a result of a judicial resolution [Section 1, Subsection b) herein] if its activities contravene Articles 1 - 5 or if the reasons due to which its activities have been suspended prevail even after the expiration of the time limit specified in the relevant judicial suspension resolution. The court of justice which decides that a political party or movement is to be dissolved must also specify a liquidator who must not be a member of such political party or movement.

(7) If there is a direct connection between the reasons due to which a political party or movement is dissolved by a judicial resolution and the acquisition or utilisation of its assets, the same court of justice may also decide that any and all assets remaining at the end of liquidation proceedings will be escheated.

Suspension of Activities of Political Parties and Movements

(1) A political party or movement may have its activities judicially suspended if they contravene Articles 1 - 5, Article 6, Section 5, Articles 17 - 19 or its own articles.

(2) A political party or movement whose activities have been judicially suspended may only act in matters whose objective is to remove the cause of suspension. If the cause of suspension is not removed within one year, the authorities specified in Article 15 of this act of law shall file a legal suit against the political party or movement at a competent administrative court, demanding that the political party or movement be dissolved.

(3) If the cause of suspension is removed within the aforementioned time limit, the political party or movement may file a legal suit at a competent administrative court, demanding that the suspension be revoked. This provision, however, does not apply to a suspension of activities resulting from the causes specified in Article 6, Section 5 and Article 18, Sections 1 and 2. In such cases, the suspension of activities is regarded as revoked on the date the relevant body recognizes a specific obligation of the political party or movement as duly met.

(1) A political party or movement is dissolved [Article 13, Section 1, Subsection b)] and its activities suspended [Article 14, Section 1] or renewed [Article 14, Section 3] on the motion of the government in accordance with a resolution by the Supreme Administration Court. If the government fails to act within 30 days, a motion may be put by the President of the republic.

(2) A political party or movement may not be dissolved and its activities suspended in a period starting on the day nationwide elections to the Chamber of Deputies, the Senate, municipal councils and the councils of regional self-governing units are announced and ending ten days after the last election day. This provision, however, shall not be applied if its activities contravene Article 4 herein.

Other consequences of the abolishment of a political party or movement or the suspension of its activities are defined by a special act of law.

Judicial Protection

(1) If any decision adopted by the bodies of a political party or movement affects the information included in the register of political parties and movements (Article 9), any member of such political party or movement may within 6 months following the date of adoption of the decision concerned ask a district court of justice to determine whether it complies with the law and with the articles of the political party or movement.

(2) Unless the challenged decision is related to the abolishment of a political party or movement, it is only possible to proceed pursuant to Section 1 herein if the member's request is rejected by the arbitrary body of the political party or movement involved or if the arbitrary body fails to make a decision within 30 days after the member's request is presented.

(3) All judicial proceedings are governed by the rules of civil procedure. One copy of the member's request, its reception date verified by the relevant court of justice, must be sent to the Ministry.

(4) The court of justice shall send a copy of its legally effective decision made pursuant to Section 1 herein to the Ministry.
